

in this issue:

Comment	3
The public sector's role in tourism
Markets
Japan	5
Japanese decline appears worse as more cities file data with TourMIS
Profiles
Madrid	6
Modest rise in domestic tourism, but foreign arrivals stagnate
11 March terrorist attack has negligible impact on tourism demand
Low-cost airlines to get their own airport
Edinburgh	8
Still Scotland's favourite destination
2003 was one of the best tourism years ever recorded ...
... thanks in no small part to improved airline links
Increased funding for Scottish tourism ...
... but not everyone is happy with the proposed changes
US cities	12
A better year for overseas tourism, but arrivals are still falling
Cape Town	13
Double-digit revpar growth, thanks to strong increases in room rates
More than 1 million arrivals were recorded in 2003
International Convention Centre opens up the MICE market
Singapore	16
New strategies to generate new tourism demand
Repositioning Singapore as the 'services centre' of the region
Changi airport determined to preserve its status as a regional hub
Comparative Trends
US states' tourism budgets	18
The public sector is the primary source of funding for tourism budgets
Declining funds for domestic and international advertising
World airport traffic	20
Back to 2000 levels
Dubai voted world's best airport in new customer satisfaction survey
City statistics	22
2003 results for non-European cities reflect severe impact of SARS	