

in this issue:

Comment	3
Turisme de Barcelona: a model case of public-private partnership?
Markets
UK	4
City statistics show surprising trends in 2003 ... ... but the first half of 2004 has seen much better growth A wealth of new destinations
Profiles
Amsterdam	6
2003 was another disappointing year The weakest hotel performance in the eurozone Despite operating problems, Amsterdam is still a favourite for investors
Newcastle Gateshead	8
One of the UK's important new regional city-break destinations International markets perform better than domestic tourism Big investments in the city's cultural attractions
Lisbon	13
Hoping for longer-term benefits from Euro2004 Concerns over the weak demand from some of major markets
Dubrovnik	15
Firmly back on Europe's tourism map New airline and cruise-ship services Hotel stock continues to improve
Las Vegas	16
Arrivals are still below 2000's peak ... ... but visitor spending reached a record high in 2003 Holidays and gambling continue to dominate demand
Comparative Trends
Asia Pacific hotels	19
Recovery gains momentum
World airports	20
Healthy traffic growth confirms positive tourism performance
City statistics	22
Benchmarking European cities' performance: Domestic versus foreign arrivals	