

in this issue:

Comment

WTO can look forward to a good year 3

Markets

Hungary outbound

Still down on 1990 peak 4
Air travel still the prerogative of the upper socio-economic groups
Steady rather than spectacular growth expected

US outbound

2001 decline not as bad as expected, but 2002 could be worse 7
Average length of stay in Europe declining
Multi-purpose trips are increasingly popular

Japan outbound

Renewed growth for Japanese outbound 10
Changing structure of the market
A sharp difference between pre- and post-11 September trends

Asia Pacific travel

A new breed of young and more independent travellers 14
Increased importance of the internet for 'looking' and 'booking' ...
... but traditional distribution channels will continue to dominate

Destinations

Europe's major long-haul markets

Another year of double-digit declines from the USA and Japan 16
UK is the only major destination to record growth from the USA

Tour Operators

German operators in 2002

First decline after ten years of consistent growth 17
TUI maintains its position as market leader
Overcapacity in the air charter market

Comparative Trends

The economic impact of travel and tourism

WTTC updates its 2002 research 20

World duty-free sales

Perfumes are still the most popular buy 22

World inbound tourism trends

The worst confidence crisis in several decades 23